

Holly Haller

Full-Stack Web Developer

Seattle, WA, USA

I am enrolled in University of Washington coding bootcamp to become a full-stack web developer. I previously worked as a massage therapist and esthetician in Seattle, Washington before I discovered my love for coding. I feel my previous work experience will make me an excellent web developer because I am practiced in listing and assessing what the client's needs are. Currently proficient with front-end web development, I am learning back-end and finding it very exciting as I explore it and further my skills in full-stack web development.
